Bacoban® Long-Term Surface Disinfection

Bacoban® is a unique surface disinfectant which uses a semi permanent nano scale layer of SiO₂ (better known as Liquid Glass).

This layer holds within it, anti pathogen agents, which are slowly released whilst the surface is in place (up to 10 days). Not only is Bacoban® effective against bacteria but it is also effective against a wide range of pathogens.

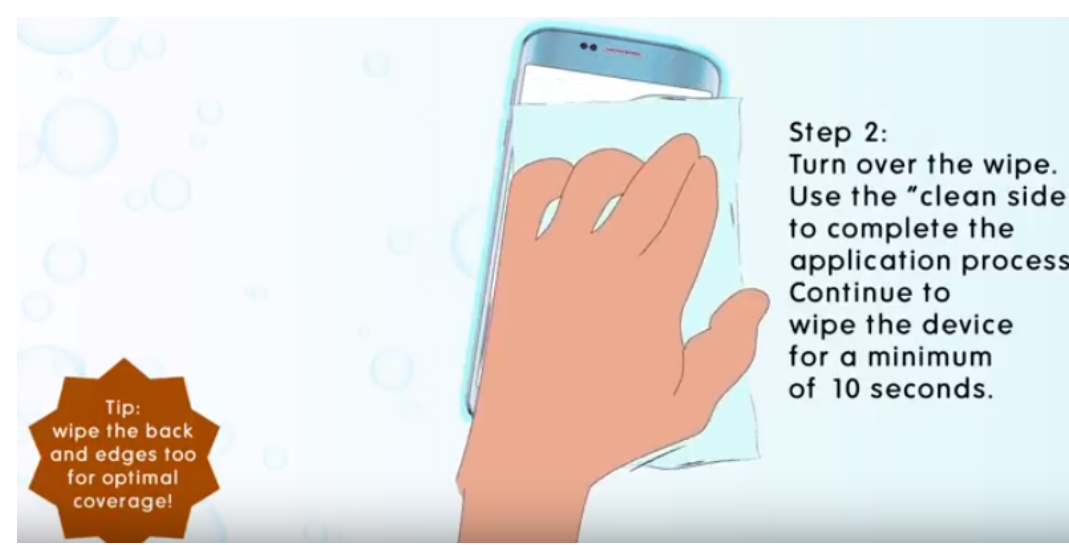

Bacoban® closes the hygiene gap that arises between disinfection cycles. This allows for active infection control for an extended period.

Hot stuff is undoubtedly a market leading technology as the performance characteristics are equal to or surpass industrially applied technologies, and yet this is a DIY technology. Our research informs us that this exceptional technology significantly outperforms competitor products. This offers us a huge opportunity to lead the market. We expect this product to be as successful as our mobile phone coating which we continue to sell in millions of units.
